

Looking down and around on Sydney

Photographer Peter Murphy wants to show Sydney a different side of itself – and to do this he has created a 3-D universe of panoramic time-lapse videos and stereoscopic multimedia images. The installation, at Customs House from November 26 to January 31, features large 3-D computer screens showing a hologram-like slide show and 'mini snow dome' photographs created using the widest fish-eye lens possible. A free family-friendly opening will take place on Thursday, November 26, from 7pm to 9pm.

