1. Limitation of authority

Advisory panels provide the Council of the City of Sydney with independent advice and expertise.

An advisory panel is not an executive body and does not have the authority to:

- expend money on behalf of Council
- undertake any work on behalf of the City of Sydney
- commit the Council to any arrangement
- consider any matter outside its specific reference
- direct Council officers in the performance of their duties
- represent the Council in any communication with the public or media without the permission of the City of Sydney.

Advisory panel advice must align with the City of Sydney's policies, strategies and operational plans.

2. Term

An advisory panel will be convened for a term of up to 4 years, aligned with the current Council term.

Members will be appointed for a term of up to 4 years (appointments will coincide with the Council term and expire 6 months after each Council election). Members may be eligible for reappointment for a further 4-year term.

A person ceases to be a panel member if they:

- resign
- are absent from 2 consecutive meetings without notification
- fail to comply with these terms of reference or the City of Sydney's code of conduct.

All appointments on behalf of organisations and NSW agencies are representative only and not personal. The organisation or agency can revoke an appointment at any time and appoint a new representative by way of written notice to Council.

Any member may resign by giving written notice to the City of Sydney. The chief executive officer may then appoint a new member in consultation with the panel, or the panel may choose to continue to the end of the current term without replacing the panel member.

Any new panel member appointed to replace an outgoing member will be appointed for the remaining period of the existing term of other members.

The advisory panel may at any time be dissolved and disbanded by Resolution of Council.

The chief executive officer may extend the term of a panel should exceptional circumstances arise that require continuity of membership for a period.

3. Recruitment

Every 4 years when a new Council term begins, a call for nominations will be advertised and promoted to relevant groups and organisations.

The call for nominations will advise that applications will be assessed in line with the selection criteria for the advisory panel.

Where applicable, the City of Sydney may create a reserve list for any casual vacancies.

We encourage all applicants to nominate, including Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, Australian South Sea Islander people, people with disability, people of diverse sexualities and genders and intersex people and people from culturally and linguistically diverse communities.

4. Appointment

All advisory panel members, except for Councillor representatives, will be appointed by the chief executive officer of the City of Sydney in line with these terms of reference.

Councillor representatives will be determined by Council. Their appointment is not governed by these terms of reference.

5. Meeting protocol and administration

Key City of Sydney staff will attend meetings to present to the advisory panel and as observers or specialist advisers.

Non-member attendees do not have voting rights.

- coordinating other meeting arrangements including accessibility of meeting procedure and materials
- reporting on progress to Council and the community.

Where applicable, panel meetings will be provided with Auslan interpreters, closed captioning, translators, printed material in alternative formats or languages and/or other accessibility services as appropriate or required.

The quorum of a meeting of the panel will be a simple majority. No business of the advisory panel will be considered unless a quorum is present. If a quorum is not present within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting, the meeting will be dissolved.

Terms of reference for advisory panels

Members can suggest more agenda items during the meeting, provided the items do not contravene the objectives stated in these terms of reference and if time allows.

The meeting minutes will be approved by the chair and circulated to attendees. Meeting minutes from the previous panel meeting will be included in the agenda for the next panel meeting.

The City of Sydney may terminate an advisory panel member's term for breaching these requirements, the terms of reference or the code of conduct.

Conflicts of interest must be disclosed and managed in line with the code of conduct. It is each members responsibility to be aware of their obligations under the code of conduct for both pecuniary and non-pecuniary conflicts of interest.

Sydney remains Australia's least affordable city. The decline in housing affordability and the inability of everyday people to access affordable and diverse housing is having an increasingly detrimental impact on socio-economic diversity, which underpins the city's rich social fabric.

Affordable and diverse housing supports a well-functioning city. For people on lower incomes, it provides a critical alternative to private market housing, providing some opportunity to live in the city.
