Message from the Lord Mayor

A healthy budget means we can deliver for our communities

Lord Mayor Clover Moore

The future Green Square Library and Plaza

The City's carefully managed, strong financial position at the end of 2012/13 means we are able to make record investments in infrastructure over the next ten years.

A responsible budget allows us to deliver for our communities and ensures that local government continues to play a vital role in our democratic system, representing local communities and getting work done at a local level.

The City has made significant progress on many Sydney 2030 projects. We are investing in projects that will help transform our city, including $440 million for a new town centre in Green Square, $220 million for George Street and light rail, $180 million for new footpaths, roadways and paving, and $55 million for new childcare centres.

Our financial and organisational resources also mean the City can take a leadership role in sustainability. Cities are the biggest producers of emissions and the biggest users of our precious resources. We have a duty to act – the science has shown we can no afford to longer wait to see what further damage carbon emissions might do to our climate.

The City of Sydney is committed to reducing our city's emissions by 70 per cent (on 2006 levels). We've already cut emissions by 19 per cent since 2006, and current projects will reduce them by 29 per cent by 2016. We're reducing our water use while reusing and recycling stormwater, installing solar panels on our buildings, using electric cars, and continuing to install energy-efficient LED lights in our streets and parks.

In June 2013 we released our draft renewable energy master plan - a blueprint for our transition to renewable electricity and gas resources. The plan outlines where all the renewable resources exist, how much it costs to harness them, and how we can use them to help deliver a 100 per cent clean renewable energy system for Sydney.

We are also tackling congestion by supporting the NSW Government's city centre light rail project and extending our network of safe, separated cycleways. Our plans will create convenient and efficient options for the majority of people who walk, ride or use public transport in our city.

Our biggest urban renewal project, Green Square, is now underway. Work has begun to transform this former industrial area into a thriving and connected neighbourhood with a stunning town centre. Demolition at the former South Sydney Hospital site has paved the way for a new cultural creative hub for the area, and we have selected a competition-winning design for the new library and plaza and created a master plan for the aquatic centre.

We have committed to fast-tracking the development of six new child care centres, and we have already identified three sites for detailed design work and community consultation next year.

The City has continues to value design-excellence and this year own buildings and public spaces have won major awards— including the Sir John Sulman Medal and National Award for Sustainable Architecture for the Waterloo Youth, Family and Community Centre; the Australia Award for Urban Design for our transformation of five inner-city laneways; and the NSW Architecture Award for Urban Design for our remaking of Pitt Street Mall.

Our Design Advisory Panel continues to play a vital role in working with architects, designers and developers to ensure commercial development in Sydney meets the highest standards of design and sustainability.

And City of Sydney staff continue to display the qualities that make our organisation a professional, responsible and innovate local government.

I look forward to working with you to create a truly sustainable city for the future.

Lord Mayor Clover Moore

Message from the CEO

Grants are vital in supporting our local community in their creativity

The new Prince Alfred Park pool

Our 2012/13 Annual Report is a true reflection that our Sydney 2030 plans are well underway.

Our State of the Environment report shows our projects in water reuse, renewable energy, green education and business partnerships are reducing our city's impact on the environment.

With an operating surplus of $96.9 million, our financial statements show our continuing ability to deliver the highest quality services and facilities to our residents and businesses. Sustainability is the key factor in the design and implementation of our services and facilities. Ultimately, we are working to create local village-style life where shops, libraries, pools, and parks are only a walk or a bike ride away.

Our capital works expenditure for 2012/13 was $103.4 million, and one of the most stunning facilities we delivered was the new Prince Alfred Park pool. Adding to our four other aquatic centres, it is the city's first fully accessible outdoor pool. This wonderful centre has bleachers and umbrellas, sky-lit change rooms, shaded areas and a landscaped sunbathing space. There is a splash deck play area for toddlers and new café. The surrounding area has been improved with new paths, furniture and lights.

We have also completed or begun upgrades to our 'town jewels', our local town halls. Glebe Town Hall reopened in early 2013, revealing restored heritage features, new accessible entry ramps and its polished cedar staircase, marble fireplace mantels and pressed metal ceilings. Paddington Town Hall underwent important repairs and Erskineville and Redfern Town have repainted facades, new roof tiling and drainage and improved internal rooms. Of course, our favourite building, Sydney Town Hall, continues to be restored for future generations, with a focus on its sandstone façade and historic clocktower.

On top of our major projects we maintained more than 400 parks, upgraded 31 small parks, and planted 689 street trees as part of our in-road tree planting program.

Grants are vital in supporting our local community in their creativity, passion and commitment to their local village. We gave a total of $6.5 million in grants in 2012/3 to a huge range of projects, from major events such as the Sydney Festival to unique local projects. Grant programs include our village business partnerships, community services, cultural, environmental and heritage grants, shopfront improvement grants and accommodation grants.

With our record budget for the next ten years, I look forward to working with our community to continue to improve our unique and wonderful villages and create a truly sustainable city.

About Sydney

Defining Sydney

The City of Sydney is the local authority with responsibility for this area but numerous other stakeholders share an interest in it. The state government has an explicit strategic interest and this is outlined in NSW 2021 and the Metropolitan Strategy. State agencies such as the Sydney Metropolitan Development Authority and the Barangaroo Delivery Authority, among others, also have key planning and development responsibilities. Sustainable Sydney 2030 recognises the broader development context of inner Sydney which includes the inner west, eastern suburbs and North Sydney. This area is a focus for jobs, leisure and cultural opportunities for the wider Sydney region.

For clarity on the relevant geographies and responsibilities the different terms and areas are defined as:

The City of Sydney (or the City) refers to the Council as an organisation, responsible for the administration of the City.

The Council refers to the elected Councillors of the City of Sydney.

The city refers to the geographical area that is administered by The City of Sydney and its physical elements.

The city centre encompasses the old Sydney 'Central Business District' and includes major civic functions, government offices, cultural and entertainment assets and runs between Circular Quay and Central Station, Domain/Hyde Park and Darling Harbour.

Inner Sydney refers to the 11 Local Government Areas of Inner Sydney: the City of Sydney, North Sydney, Ashfield, Botany Bay, Canada Bay, Leichhardt, Marrickville, Randwick, Rockdale, Waverley and Woollahra.

The Sydney region refers to the 43 local government areas of the Sydney metropolitan area and Central Coast (this is also the area defined by the Australian Bureau of Statistics as the Sydney Statistical Division).

The area

The City of Sydney local government area (LGA) covers approximately 26.15 square kilometres. It covers the Sydney Harbour foreshore from Rushcutters Bay to Glebe and Annandale in the west, Sydney Park and Rosebery in the south, and Centennial Park and Paddington in the east.

Within the city boundaries, waterways and some public areas are under the executive control of various NSW Government agencies including the Sydney Harbour Foreshore Authority, Transport for Sydney, Sydney Ports Corporation, The Centennial and Moore Park Trust, the Royal Botanic Garden and Domain Trust, Commonwealth Department of Defence, Redfern- Waterloo Authority and Barangaroo Development Authority.

The economy

The gross domestic product (GDP) of the City in 2010/11 was approximately $100 billion. This represents 7.5 per cent (nearly one-twelfth) of the national Australian GDP, more than 30 per cent of the Sydney metropolitan area, and almost one-quarter of the entire state's GDP.

Importantly, the majority of this economic activity is in dominant industries in the global economy; that is business and financial services, telecommunications, and creative industries. The city is the headquarters of almost 40 per cent of the top 500 Australian corporations, and almost half of the regional headquarters of multinational corporations in Australia.

The city is the workplace of 20 per cent of the entire Australian finance sector; 13 per cent of Australia's total information, media and technology industry sector, and 11 per cent of national employment in creative and performing arts activity. This proportion is even greater in more specific industries, such as internet publishing and broadcasting (44 per cent).

City development

Within the City of Sydney local government area, there are more than 27,000 buildings and 19,700 businesses. The quantum of constructed floor area measured in 2006 exceeded 47 million square metres. To accommodate strong residential and employment growth, the City receives approximately 2,400 development applications a year, with about 95 per cent of applications approved. The value of developments fluctuates according to economic conditions and the impact of individual high expense projects which create value peaks. The City of Sydney has recovered strongly from the global financial crisis in 2009/10. Based on current industry mix, the economic growth of the city has returned to a level exceeding the Australian average after trailing the rest of Australia in the early part of 2009.

The residents

The City of Sydney is home to more than 185,000 people (as at June 2011), of whom one-third were born overseas, almost one quarter in non-English-speaking countries.

During the 10 years from 2001, we recorded both the largest residential population growth (52,500) and fastest rate of growth (40.5 per cent) of any local government area in NSW. It is anticipated that the population will rise by a further 15,000 in the next four years.

On the whole, the city is an area of relative advantage, with higher-than-average incomes, more people with university degrees than is usual in Sydney, and more people working as managers and professionals. However, we need to be careful that this does not hide the disadvantage that does exist. The city has some areas with high concentrations of households on low or very low incomes.

We have far fewer people than average who own or are purchasing their own homes, and a much greater percentage of people renting than is usual in Sydney. This goes hand-in-hand with the very high number of people aged between 18 and 34, and number of people living alone, and low number of families with children.

Our residents have far fewer cars than the Sydney average, with almost one-third of households having no car at all, and a further one-third having only one car. One quarter of our working population walk to work.

About the city

The integrated planning and reporting framework

A new mandatory integrated planning and reporting framework for NSW local government was introduced by the NSW State Government as shown in the diagram below.

These reforms of the Local Government Act 1993 replace the former management plan and social plan structures.

The City of Sydney's response to this statutory framework for planning and reporting is embodied in the suite of integrated planning documents which were adopted following public exhibition in May-June 2013.

An Ongoing Program to Achieve a Green, Global, Connected City

Sustainable Sydney 2030 is an ongoing commitment by the City of Sydney to achieve the vision and targets set out for a Green, Global, Connected City.

Establishing partnerships for change

The City of Sydney has a critical role in implementing the program. However, it can only be achieved through partnerships for change with community, business and government.

Aligning Council's program and operations

The Corporate Plan 2013-2016 is the City of Sydney's four-year delivery program in response to the community vision and strategy expressed in Sustainable Sydney 2030.

It identifies priority projects and programs over this timeframe, with targets and key performance indicators to deliver the long-term goals and outcomes specified under each strategic direction. The financial plan for the delivery of this program is also identified. From this program, the Operational Plan 2013/14 is derived as an annual instalment, which also includes the detailed budget and revenue policy.

Resourcing the plan

To support the community's objectives expressed in Sustainable Sydney 2030, a long-term resourcing strategy is required as part of the integrated planning and reporting framework. This serves to both inform and test the aspirations expressed in the strategic plan and how Council's share of the required actions might be achieved.

The Resourcing Strategy (2013) which accompanies this community strategic plan includes three components:

- Long-term financial plan
- Workforce strategy
- Asset management strategy

Costs for the principal activities undertaken by the City of Sydney under Sustainable Sydney 2030, including the continued provision of current services at the appropriate levels necessary to meet the objectives of the community strategic plan, are brought together in the long-term financial plan. This provides a 10-year view of the costs and what can be funded by the City of Sydney or may be required from other sources.

The City of Sydney's workforce capacity to meet the objectives of the strategy and the broad challenges and responses to planning our future workforce are outlined in the Workforce Strategy (2013).

Asset management is a critical area of local government responsibilities, governed by legislated standards. The status, needs and resourcing plan for each key asset area in the City's care are shown through the Asset Management Strategy (2013).

How the documents relate

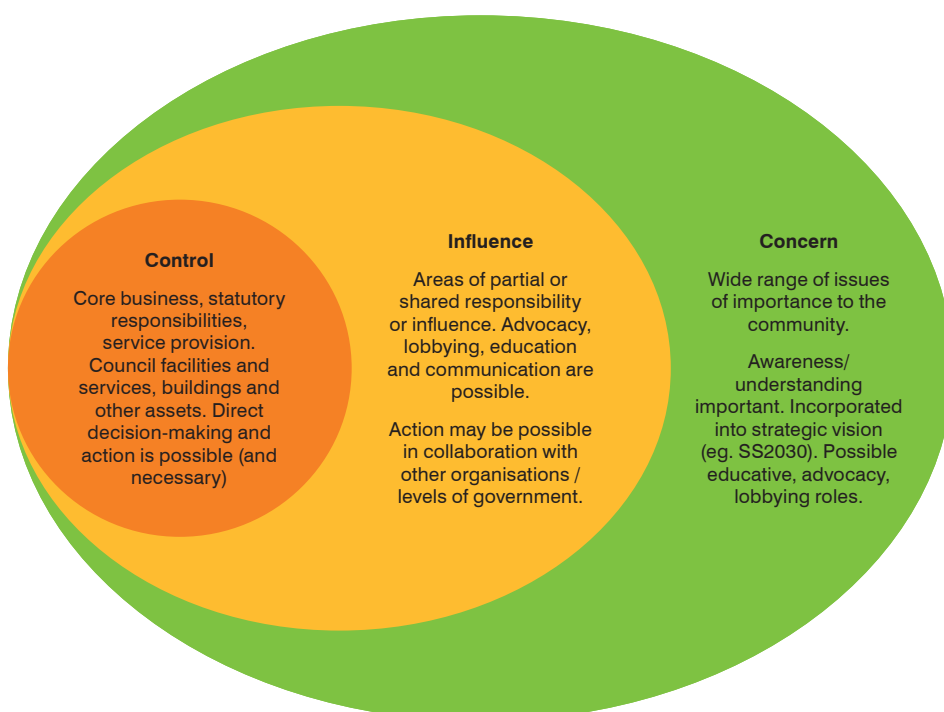

How the City of Sydney's Integrated Planning and Reporting documents work together is illustrated by the diagram on page 18. All of the key plans are tested and refreshed annually and subject to a review following the election of each new Council. The next review will be in 2016/2017.

Making it happen

The City of Sydney – roles and responsibility

The City of Sydney, as a local government organisation is governed by the requirements of the Local Government Act (1993) and Regulation, the City of Sydney Act (1988) and other relevant legislative provisions and is responsible for administering its local government area.

The Local Government Act includes a charter, which identifies the matters councils need to consider when carrying out their responsibilities. While following this charter, in reality councils have a range of roles – as a leader, service provider, regulator, advocate, facilitator and educator. Councils have a responsibility to formulate and pursue their community's vision and ideas, provide civic leadership, deliver key services and express local ideas and concerns about important issues to other levels of government.

A year in review

During 2012/13, the City of Sydney continued to work towards the targets of Sustainable Sydney 2030 program and achieved strong results.

In an Australian first, the City advanced the rollout of 6,448 energy-efficient LED street and park lights across the local government area (LGA). To date, 2,620 LED street lights have been installed, resulting in a 27% reduction in carbon emissions.

We've completed 95% of our $6.9 million building energy and water efficiency retrofit of 45 City properties. Annually, we estimate that the retrofit will reduce carbon emissions from our properties by 23%, water consumption by 53,313kL, and utility bills by more than $1 million.

The City continued installing 5,500 solar photovoltaic panels on more than 30 City buildings, with 2,574m² of panels now installed at 24 sites. By 2015, the panels are expected to supply up to 12.5% of the City's own energy requirements.

The City deployed 14 zero-emission electric vehicles during 2012/13, for use by City staff for daily inspections or meeting attendance.

The City sent zero household waste to direct landfill during 2012/13, with waste processed at an advanced treatment facility where the recyclable material is removed and the compostable material is processed into low-grade compost.

Cycling trips have increased by 113% across the LGA since March 2010, with around 2,000 bikes passing through top peak-hour intersections on an average weekday.

The City provided $808,787 under our village business partnership program during 2012/13, awarding grants to 15 companies and organisations that contribute to the local economy, provide employment and benefit the community.

We provided $3.5 million in grants and sponsorships during 2012/13 in support of cultural events across the City, large and small. We sponsored major cultural festivals including Sydney Festival, Sydney Gay and Lesbian Mardi Gras, Biennale of Sydney, Sydney Writers' Festival, and Sydney Film Festival and staged Sydney NYE, Sydney Chinese New Year and Art & About.

We strengthened the unique cultural identity and vibrancy of the City's villages, completing eight permanent and six temporary public artworks across the local government area during 2012/13 and launching the Eora Journey public art program.

We opened Prince Alfred Park pool, bringing our total number of aquatic centres to five. We maintained more than 400 parks, upgraded 31 small parks, and planted 689 street trees as part of our in-road tree planting program.

Clause 217 (1) (a3) legal proceedings

A report on the summary of the City's amounts incurred in relation to legal proceedings taken by or against the council (including amounts, costs and expenses paid or received by way of out of court settlements, other than those the terms of which are not to be disclosed) and a summary of the state of progress of each legal proceeding and (if it has been finalised) the result,

Expenses incurred

During 2012/13, expenses incurred by the City of Sydney in relation to legal proceedings were as follows:

• costs paid in respect of proceedings:	$2,744,067.95
• costs received in respect of proceedings:	$286,546.60
• amounts paid in out-of-court settlements:	$61,849.99
• amounts received in out-of-court settlements:	Nil

Enforcement

Enforcement proceedings include civil or criminal enforcement proceedings commenced by Council in the Land and Environment Court or Local Court. Generally, such proceedings will arise from a failure to obtain or comply with development approval or a failure to comply with an order issued by Council. Some examples include unauthorised works or unauthorised uses of land or failure to comply with an order such as an order to upgrade fire safety. Council also initiates food safety prosecutions in relation to unhealthy food premises.

Appeals against orders issued by Council

When Council issues an order it may be challenged in the Land and Environment Court by the recipient. In 2012/13, five orders issued by Council were the subject of appeals to the Land and Environment Court. All of these appeals were discontinued by the applicant.

Civil Enforcement Proceedings

In 2012/13, Council commenced five civil enforcement proceedings in the Land and Environment Court seeking to either enforce a Council order or obtain a declaration from the Court that an unauthorised use cease or that unauthorised works be demolished. There were two ongoing civil enforcement proceedings, which were also finalised.

The Court made orders in all seven matters to enforce Council's order. No matters are yet to be finalised. No civil enforcement proceedings were dismissed by the Court.

Criminal Enforcement Proceedings

There was one matter in 2012/13 where, after Council succeeded in taking civil enforcement proceedings in the Land and Environment Court, the respondent failed to comply with the court's orders. In this matter, Council commenced contempt proceedings. The matter was finalised in favour of Council with a fine imposed and costs awarded.

In 2012/13, Council was involved in 14 prosecutions in the Local Court of which 13 related to unhealthy food premises and one related to a roads offence. In all matters the court found the offence proven. In the matters relating to the unhealthy food premises, the defendant then appealed to the District Court as to the severity of the penalty imposed. The District Court upheld the conviction but reduced the penalty.

Enforcement of penalty notices

If the recipient of a penalty notice issued by a Council officer elects to dispute the matter in the court, proceedings will be commenced in the Local Court in Council's name by the NSW State Debt Recovery Office and Council will be informed. For matters other than parking penalty notices, Council's Legal Services unit will review the penalty notice and if it appears to have been issued correctly, will continue the proceedings. If the penalty notice does not appear correct, Council will withdraw the proceedings. Local Court parking matters are dealt with by the police prosecutors except in exceptional circumstances. Local Court parking matters that have been dealt with by the police prosecutors are not included in this report. In this financial year, Council was involved in two court elected penalty notices related to parking infringements. In both cases the Court found the offence proven.

In 2012/13, Council was involved in 56 matters where the recipient of a penalty notice (not parking) disputed the offence. Council withdrew 15 matters with the Court, finding the offence proven in 29 matters. No matters were dismissed by the Local Court and 12 matters are yet to be finalised.

Planning

Planning determinations of Council may be the subject of an appeal to the Land and Environment Court. Planning appeals arise from either a refusal (or deemed refusal) of consent by Council for a desired use or works at premises, or an appeal against conditions imposed on applicants as part of a development approval.

In 2012/13, 47 planning appeals were lodged in the Land and Environment Court against Council. Of these 44 appeals were finalised with four appeals upheld by the Court in favour of the applicant; 20 appeals upheld by the Court on the basis of either the parties' agreement or amended plans or amended conditions; 13 appeals were subsequently discontinued by the applicants and seven appeals were dismissed in favour of Council. There are 12 appeals yet to be finalised.

If a party is dissatisfied with the outcome of a planning appeal it has a limited right of appeal to a judge of the Land and Environment Court pursuant to s56A of the Land and Environment Court Act 1979. In 2012/13, Council was a party in one s56A appeal. This appeal has not yet been finalised.

Other Proceedings

Supreme Court and Court of Appeal

Supreme Court proceedings can be brought by or against Council in a range of circumstances, such as contract disputes or negligence claims. In 2012/13, Council was engaged in three matters, two of which were ongoing from 2011/12.

In one matter the Court had earlier given judgment in favour of Council and awarded costs. This decision was appealed by the other party to the Court of Appeal which directed that the matter be remitted to the Supreme Court for further consideration on limited issues. Council made further application challenging this decision which is not yet finalised.

In the other matter, Council had commenced proceedings seeking to enforce recovery of a debt owed to Council by a corporation and challenged entry into a deed of company arrangement. This matter is not yet finalised.

Legislative Requirements

Council was also involved in one set of proceedings in the Supreme Court where the applicant sought an injunction against the exercise of Council's powers under the Protection of the Environment Operations Act 1997. This matter was discontinued by the applicant.

Dog obedience training

The City funded four six-week basic and intermediate dog obedience training courses for residents to assist in educating them about their responsibilities under the Companion Animals Act. At the end of the courses the residents were able to exercise effective control of their dogs, have a greater understanding of dog health and behaviour and contribute to making parks and open spaces a safer and friendlier environment for all visitors.

Approximately 290 residents participated in the four courses offered in 2012/13 with 253 participants completing the courses.

Courses held over the year Jul/Aug 2012, Oct/Nov 2012, and Feb/Mar 2013 and Apr/June 2013 courses held.

Promoting desexing and microchipping

Operation Cat

To help residents on low incomes or pensions, the City has been working with the Cat Protection Society of NSW to provide a subsidised desexing service. For $41 residents are able to have their cats desexed, microchipped and transported to and from the vet.

In 2012/2013, 104 cats were desexed and 93 cats were microchipped as part of Operation Cat.

As well as the microchipping in Operation Cat, the City provided free microchipping with desexing for residents with pensioner concession or health care cards.

In total, 148 animals were microchipped through City initiatives for subsidised or free microchipping services, including those already mentioned above.

Pet taxi

A pet taxi service is provided once a month by an established pet taxi company, "Porters 4 Pets" to assist residents on pensions or low incomes to access discounted desexing services for their dogs. Sylvania Veterinary Hospital provides a discounted fee for desexing, through which 39 dogs were desexed during 2012/2013. The City covers the pet taxi service cost to and from the vet.

People and pets day at Northcott

This event was designed to educate the community on responsible pet ownership as well as offer free flea and worming treatments, free vet checks, free microchipping and promote dog obedience training.

Dog leads and treats

While conducting park visits City staff provided dog leads and treats to owners to promote responsible pet ownership, specifically the importance of ensuring dogs are on a leash when required in the City's parks and while being walked on the public footway.

Strategies

The City has a shared services agreement with the Sutherland Shire Council to use Sutherland's Animal Shelter, which is a no-kill facility. The focus for the agreement is to re-home all suitable animals, upgrade the existing shelter and work together to provide a state-of-the-art animal adoption facility.

The animals available for adoption are now being promoted in the weekly staff newsletter "Round the Square" and in the The Central Courier newspaper in a "Pet of the Week" column.

Government Information (Public Access) Act 2009 No 52

Part 7 Section 125

The City must report information as required under the Act

Appendix 1 – Obligations under the GIPA Act

The Government Information (Public Access) Act 2009 (GIPA Act) became operational on 1 July 2010 and introduced a new “right to information” approach for access to government information.

The City of Sydney Council (City) is required to prepare an annual report in accordance with the requirements of section 125 of the GIPA Act and clause 7 of the Government Information (Public Access) Regulation (GIPA Regulation). In this annual report we are required to include statistical information on formal access applications in the form required by Schedule 2 of the GIPA Regulation.

This report is the City's GIPA Act Annual Report for the period 1 July 2012 to 30 June 2013.

1. Review of proactive release program - Clause 7(a)

Under section 7(3) of the GIPA Act, the City must review its program for the release of government information to identify the kinds of government information it holds that should in the public interest be made publicly available and that can be made publicly available without imposing unreasonable additional costs. This review must be undertaken at least once every 12 months.

The City's program for the proactive release of information involves maintaining and promoting to staff a practice of openness and accountability of information and decision making. The program is achieved by providing information through extensive publication on the City's website or through inspection and/or paper or electronic copy of information on request. The City encourages applications to be made, in the first instance, under the informal request provisions of the GIPA Act.

During the 2012/2013 reporting year the City's review and redevelopment of its website continued, which presented the City with the opportunity to review its web based program for proactive release of information. A review was undertaken of the information published on the City's website to identify new information that has been made available during the reporting period and to ensure that the information that has been published is up to date.

As a result of this review the following actions were taken:

- Open access information published by the City is now reviewed each quarter to check the content and currency of information, paying particular attention to ensuring the timely release of information relating to new developments, and City of Sydney programs, services and initiatives;
- Regular reviews are undertaken of informal requests for information received by the City to evaluate the type of information applicants are seeking access to and whether any of that information may be proactively released;
- Each quarter City staff with responsibility for publishing and managing City information and that have cross-organisational project and strategy responsibilities provide a summary of information that has been published proactively on behalf of the City. This process is coordinated by the Governance Unit, which is also responsible for the development and publication of the City's GIPA Annual Report.

Legislative Requirements

During the reporting period, the City has continued to proactively release information by:

- reporting to the community about proposed development activities, policies and strategies through prominent display on the City's website, local print media and public exhibition notices, which invite community feedback during the decision making process;
- advertising local City managed and community activities and events through printed media, videos/animations, online promotion, social media, YouTube and face to face at events. This includes proactive publication about the following initiatives:
 - Let's Talk Business
 - Sydney Writers' & Film Fest
 - NAIDOC Week
 - Butt Blitz
 - Chemical Cleanout
 - Green Villages – 43,000 webpage views
 - China Connect
 - City Art – 15,000 hits from a single Facebook post
 - Love Surry Hills – 9,000 webpage views
 - Strata Skills 101 Seminars
 - CitySwitch
- promoting environmental issues and events on the City website including:
 - Green Reports
 - State of Environment Report
 - Decentralised Water Master Plan
 - Interim Waste Strategy
 - Renewable Energy Master Plan - public consultation via 'Sydney Your Say';
 - Trigenation
 - Urban Heat Island Effect
 - Carbon Neutral project work
- regularly distributing media releases about decisions, projects, services, events, matters of community interest and activities that are supported by Council;
- redesigning and updating the Access to Information pages on the City's website to make the content clearer and easier to understand;
- between April and October 2012 publishing:
 - a Local Government Elections 2012 providing an easy access point to information published by the NSW Electoral Commission;
 - a Councillor Induction page providing information about the role and responsibilities of Councillors and the local government area;
- publishing new information on the City's website about the City's strategic and corporate plans under the local government integrated planning and reporting framework;
- publishing new information about major development sites in the local government area including:
 - Ashmore precinct
 - Barangaroo
 - Central Park
 - Green Square
 - Harold Park

A full review was made of information requested formally under the GIPA Act during the reporting period (which is detailed in the City's Disclosure Log) to determine whether information sought formally could be made available on the City's website. Some of the information is already available to the public via the City's or other websites; the remainder may be available to the public via informal request, subject to the public interest considerations prescribed by the GIPA Act and other relevant legislation.

2. Number of access applications received - Clause 7(b)

During the reporting period, the City received nine formal access applications (including withdrawn applications but not invalid applications).

A total of ten formal access applications were determined during the reporting period. This number includes the determination of one formal access application received in the previous reporting period, 20 June 2012.

3. Number of refused applications for Schedule 1 information - Clause 7(c)

During the reporting period, the City refused in full one formal access application because the information requested was information referred to in Schedule 1 to the GIPA Act.

Reporting annually on public interest disclosures

The City has developed a Fraud and Corruption Internal Reporting Policy to bring an organisation-wide approach to managing reporting on fraud and corruption. The policy is modelled on the NSW Ombudsman's guidelines and model policy, and applies to all officials of the City.

The policy ensures that as a public authority, the City meets its responsibilities in receiving, assessing and dealing with public interest disclosures (PIDs) under section 6D of the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 (the Act).

A number of actions were taken by the City to make staff aware of the Fraud and Corruption Internal Reporting Policy, and the protections under the Act for a person who makes a PID. The actions include: training provided by both the City and the Ombudsman; email messages to staff; links on the City's Intranet site; and messages in the staff newsletter.

Under section 31 of the Act, the City is required to prepare an annual report on its statistics on PIDs.

The statistics below report on data from 1 July 2012 to 30 June 2013.
