Fraud and Corruption Internal Reporting Policy
Message from the Chief Executive Officer

One of the major difficulties in combating fraud and other corrupt behaviour is the many and varied ways in which it can occur. For that reason it is critically important that all officials including Councillors, City Staff, and delegates of Council are at all times aware of the possibility that fraud could happen in one form or another.

As much as we all would like to think that it could only be initiated by external sources, evidence shows that fraud and corruption is often perpetrated from within an organisation.

Fraud and corruption are ongoing risks faced by our organisation. The intention of this policy is to bring an organisation-wide approach to managing reporting on fraud and corruption. The policy is modelled on the NSW Ombudsman’s guidelines and model policy.

This policy applies to all officials of the City and is to be read in conjunction with the Code of Conduct for Councillors and City staff.

The City is demonstrating leadership and commitment to the requirements of the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 by establishing an effective internal reporting system to appropriately receive, assess and deal with reports of suspected wrongdoing.

To facilitate this, the City will provide an environment that enables the free and open reporting of suspected fraud and corruption by staff without reprisal.

Policy content
The City of Sydney is committed to the highest standard of ethical and accountable conduct and will support and protect staff who report wrongdoing. Individuals who come forward and report wrongdoing are helping to promote integrity, accountability and good management within the City.

The Fraud and Corruption Internal Reporting Policy has been established to ensure utmost clarity and consistency in handling reports of wrongdoing.

The City’s Complaints and Feedback Guidelines outline the external and internal procedures for handling complaints and compliments. The City has also developed a Staff Complaints Policy that offers practical guidance to staff wishing to make a complaint.

Purpose
This policy is designed to:

- demonstrate the City’s commitment to high standards of ethical and accountable conduct and confirms that any form of wrongdoing will not be tolerated;
- conform with the City’s Code of Conduct;
- ensure that, as a public authority, the City meets its responsibilities in receiving, assessing and dealing with public interest disclosures under the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994; and
- define procedures to be applied in reporting wrongdoing.

Scope
This policy complies with NSW Government legislation and guidelines for public interest disclosures and applies to all officials of the City, this includes:

- Councillors; and
- City staff, including:
  - permanent staff, whether full-time or part-time;
  - temporary or casual employees;
  - consultants; and
  - individual contractors working for the council.

The policy also applies to people who perform public official functions where their conduct and activities could be investigated by an investigating authority. This can include volunteers and those contracted to work for the City.

Note
Where people honestly believe on reasonable grounds that wrongdoing has occurred, this policy will protect them from detrimental action if they report that wrongdoing. Applying the protection of this Policy and the Public Interest Disclosures Act does not mean that the subject of the report has been substantiated.

Where the behaviour is investigated and not substantiated, the person making the disclosure will still be protected as long as, at the time of making the disclosure, they honestly believed on reasonable grounds that it had occurred. The protections of the Policy and Public Interest Disclosures Act will not apply where the disclosure concerns the merits of government policy, was motivated by avoiding disciplinary action or was made to a member of Parliament.
Definitions
See Appendix 1 for definitions relating to this policy.

Organisational Commitment
The City of Sydney is committed to:

- creating a climate of trust, where people are comfortable and confident about reporting wrongdoing;
- encouraging individuals to come forward if they become aware of, or suspect wrongdoing within the City;
- keeping the identity of any the person disclosing wrongdoing confidential, wherever possible and appropriate;
- protecting people who make disclosures from any reprisal action motivated by their report;
- dealing with reports thoroughly and impartially and if some form of wrongdoing has been found, taking appropriate action;
- keeping the individual who makes a report informed of their matter’s progress and the outcome;
- encouraging the reporting of wrongdoing within the City, but respecting any decision to disclose wrongdoing outside the City;
- ensuring managers and supervisors understand their obligations in responding to reports of wrongdoing and are familiar with this policy;
- providing adequate resources to:
  - promote awareness in order to encourage reports of wrongdoing;
  - protect and support those who make reports;
  - provide training about how to make reports and the provisions of the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994;
  - investigate allegations;
  - properly manage any workplace issues that the allegations identify or create; and
  - correct any problem that is identified. And;
- regularly reassessing/reviewing this policy to ensure it is relevant and effective.

Making a report of wrongdoing
All public officials of the City are encouraged to report known and suspected wrongdoing within the City in accordance with this policy.

Staff and Councillors have an important role to play in supporting those who have made public interest disclosures. They must abstain from any activity that is or could be perceived to be victimisation or harassment of a person who has made a disclosure. Further, they should protect and maintain the confidentiality of any person they know or suspect has made a disclosure.

What should be reported?
You should report any wrongdoing you see within the City.

Reports about the five categories of wrongdoing – corrupt conduct, maladministration, serious and substantial waste of public money, government information contravention, and local government pecuniary interest contravention – will be dealt with under the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 as public interest disclosures and according to this policy.

Definitions of the five categories of wrongdoing are provided in Appendix A.
Public interest disclosures

The City will support any person who reports wrongdoing. For a report to be considered a public interest disclosure, it has to meet the requirements of the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994. These are:

- the person making the disclosure must honestly believe on reasonable grounds that the information shows or tends to show wrongdoing; and
- the report has to be made to one of the following:
  - a position nominated in this policy (see ‘Who to report to at the City’); or
  - one of the investigating authorities nominated in the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994.

Reports by staff and Councillors will not be considered to be public interest disclosures if they:

- mostly question the merits of the policy of the governing body of the council; or
- are made with the sole or substantial motive of avoiding dismissal or other disciplinary action.

How to report wrongdoing

You can report wrongdoing in writing or verbally. You are encouraged to make a report in writing as this can help to avoid confusion or misinterpretation.

If a report is made verbally, the person receiving the report must make a comprehensive record of the disclosure and ask the person making the disclosure to sign this record. The individual making the report should keep a copy of this record.

If you are concerned about being seen making a report, ask to meet in a discreet location away from the workplace.

The City has an employee assistance program which is a free confidential counselling service available to all staff experiencing personal or work related problems. You can contact Davidson Trahaire Corpsyche on 1300 360 364.

Anonymous reports

There will be some situations where you may not want to identify yourself when you make a report. Although these anonymous reports will still be dealt with by the City, it is best if you identify yourself. This allows us to provide you with any necessary protection and support, as well as feedback about the outcome of any investigation into the allegations.

It is important to realise that making an anonymous disclosure may not guarantee that you will not be identified.

Maintaining confidentiality

The City realises some people will want their report to remain confidential.

We are committed to keeping your identity, and the fact you have reported wrongdoing, confidential. However there may be situations where this may not be possible or appropriate. We will discuss with you whether it is possible to keep your report confidential.

If confidentiality cannot be maintained, we will develop a plan to support and protect you from risks of reprisal. You will be involved in developing this plan. You will also be told if your report will be dealt with under the City’s Code of Conduct, as this may mean certain information will have to be tabled at a Council meeting.
If you report wrongdoing, you should only discuss your report with those responsible for dealing with it. If you discuss your report more broadly, you may affect the investigation.

Who to report to at the City

The Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 requires that for a report to be a public interest disclosure it must be made to a public official in accordance with this policy.

Any person who receives a report that they believe may be a public interest disclosure must refer the individual making the report to one of the positions listed below.

The following positions are the only staff within the City who can receive public interest disclosures:

1. Disclosures Officers – All Directors and Manager Governance
   Disclosures Officers work with the Disclosures Coordinator and are responsible for receiving, forwarding and/or dealing with reports made in accordance with this policy.

2. Disclosures Coordinator – Director Legal and Governance
   The Disclosures Coordinator has a central role in dealing with reports. They receive, assess and refer them to the people within the City to be dealt with appropriately.

3. Chief Executive Officer (CEO)
   You can report wrongdoing directly to the CEO. The CEO is responsible for:
   - deciding if a report is a public interest disclosure;
   - determining what needs to be done next, including referring it to other authorities;
   - deciding what further action needs to be taken;
   - ensuring there are systems in place to support and protect people who report wrongdoing;
   - dealing with disclosures made under the City’s Code of Conduct in accordance with the City’s adopted Code of Conduct procedures; and
   - referring actual or suspected corrupt conduct to the Independent Commission Against Corruption.

4. Lord Mayor
   You can report wrongdoing directly to the Lord Mayor. If you are making a report about the CEO, you should make your report to the Lord Mayor. The Lord Mayor may seek guidance from the Disclosure Coordinator, CEO (if appropriate) or an investigating authority (i.e. the Ombudsman, Independent Commission Against Corruption or the Director-General of the Division of Local Government).

   If you are a member of staff and your report involves a Councillor, you should make it to the CEO or the Lord Mayor. If you are a Councillor and your report is about another Councillor, you should make it to the CEO or the Lord Mayor.

Who to report to externally

Staff and Councillors are encouraged to report wrongdoing within the City, but internal reporting is not the only option. If you follow the guidance below, your report can still be a public interest disclosure.

You can choose to make your report to an investigating authority. You can do this first, or at any stage after your initial report to the City. You can also choose to make a report to a Member of Parliament or a journalist, but if you do so it will be a public interest disclosure only in the limited circumstances outlined below.

Investigating authorities

The Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 lists a number of investigating authorities in NSW that can receive reports of wrongdoing and the categories of wrongdoing each authority can deal with.

In relation to the City, these authorities are:

- the Independent Commission Against Corruption (ICAC) — for corrupt conduct;
- the Ombudsman — for maladministration;
- the Information Commissioner — for disclosures about a government information contravention; and
- The CEO of the Office of Local Government Department of Premier and Cabinet – for disclosures about local government agencies.

You should contact the relevant authority for advice about how to make a disclosure to them. Contact details for each investigating authority are provided in Appendix 3.

You should be aware that it is very likely the investigating authority will discuss the case with the City. We will make every effort to assist and cooperate with the investigating authority to ensure the matter is dealt with appropriately and we will provide support and assistance to staff who report wrongdoing to an investigating authority.

Members of Parliament or journalists

To have the protections of the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994, staff reporting wrongdoing to a Member of Parliament or a journalist must have already made substantially the same report to one of the following:

- the CEO;
- a person nominated in this policy; or
- an investigating authority in accordance with the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994.

Also, the City or investigating authority that received the report must have either:

- decided not to investigate the matter;
- decided to investigate the matter, but not completed the investigation within six months of the original report;
- investigated the matter but not recommended any action as a result; or
- not told the person who made the report, within six months of the report being made, whether the matter will be investigated.

Most importantly – to be protected under the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 – if you report wrongdoing to a Member of Parliament or a journalist you will need to be able to prove that you have reasonable grounds for believing that the disclosure is substantially true and that it is in fact substantially true.

If you report wrongdoing to a person or an organisation that is not listed above, you will not be protected under the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994. This may mean you will be in breach of legal obligations or the City’s Code of Conduct – by, for example, disclosing confidential information.
For more information about reporting wrongdoing outside the City, contact the Disclosures Coordinator or the NSW Ombudsman’s Public Interest Disclosures Unit. Their contact details are provided at the end of this policy.

Feedback to staff who report wrongdoing

Individuals who report wrongdoing will be told what is happening in response to their report.

When you make a report, you will be given:

- an acknowledgement that your disclosure has been received;
- the timeframe for when you will receive further updates; and
- the name and contact details of the people who can tell you what is happening.

The Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 requires that you are provided with an acknowledgement letter and a copy of this policy within 45 days after you have made your report.

After a decision is made about how your report will be dealt with, you will be given:

- information about the action that will be taken in response to your report;
- likely timeframes for any investigation;
- information about the resources available within the City to handle any concerns you may have; and
- information about external agencies and services you can access for support.

This information will be given to you within 10 working days from the date you make your report.

During any investigation, you will be given:

- information on the ongoing nature of the investigation;
- information about the progress of the investigation and reasons for any delay; and
- advice if your identity needs to be disclosed for the purposes of investigating the matter, and an opportunity to talk about this.

At the end of any investigation, you will be given:

- enough information to show that adequate and appropriate action was taken and/or is proposed to be taken in response to your disclosure and any problem that was identified; and
- advice about whether you will be involved as a witness in any further matters, such as disciplinary or criminal proceedings.

This information will be given to you within 6 months from the date you make your report.

A flowchart of the reporting process is summarised in Appendix 2.

Protection against reprisals

The Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 provides protection for people reporting wrongdoing by imposing penalties on anyone who takes detrimental action substantially in reprisal for them making the public interest disclosure.

The City will not tolerate any reprisal action against individuals who report wrongdoing. The criminal penalties that can be imposed include imprisonment or fines. Detrimental action is also misconduct that justifies disciplinary action. People who take detrimental action against someone who has made a disclosure may also be required to pay damages for any loss suffered by that person.

Detrimental action means action causing, comprising or involving any of the following:
- injury, damage or loss;
- intimidation or harassment;
- discrimination, disadvantage or adverse treatment in relation to employment;
- dismissal from, or prejudice in, employment; or
- disciplinary proceedings.

Responding to reprisals
The City will act to protect staff who report wrongdoing from reprisals.

When a report is received, we will ensure that a thorough risk assessment is conducted. This will identify any risks to the member of staff who reported the wrongdoing, as well as strategies to deal with those risks.

If you believe that detrimental action has been or is being taken against you or someone else who has reported wrongdoing in reprisal for making a report, you should tell the Disclosures Coordinator or the CEO immediately, or in the case of an allegation of reprisal action by the CEO, the Lord Mayor.

All managers/supervisors must report any suspicions they have that reprisal action against a staff member is occurring, or any reports of reprisal action that are made to them, to the Disclosures Coordinator or the CEO, or in the case of an allegation of reprisal by the CEO, to the Lord Mayor.

If the Disclosures Coordinator becomes aware of or reasonably suspects that reprisal action is being taken, or has been taken against a person who has made a disclosure, they will ensure that the matter is reported under the City’s Code of Conduct and dealt with in accordance with the City’s procedures.

If you report reprisal action, you will be kept informed of the progress of any investigation and the outcome.

Specific directions may be issued to help protect against reprisals. These may include:
- issuing warnings to those alleged to have taken reprisal action against the person who made the disclosure; or
- in relation to staff who make reports:
  - relocating the member of staff who made the disclosure or the subject officer within the current workplace;
  - transferring the member of staff who made the disclosure or the staff member who is the subject of the allegation to another position for which they are qualified; or
  - granting the member of staff who made the disclosure or the subject officer leave of absence during the investigation of the disclosure.

In relation to staff who make reports, such directions will only be made if the member of staff agrees to it. The Disclosures Coordinator will make it clear to other staff that this action was taken in consultation with the staff member and with management support.
If you have reported wrongdoing and feel that any reprisal action is not being dealt with effectively, contact the Ombudsman, the ICAC, or the Chief Executive of the Office of Local Government – depending on the type of wrongdoing you reported. Contact details for all these investigating authorities are provided in Appendix 3.

Where there is any evidence of a reprisal offence having been committed (even where an investigation has been completed or discontinued), the City must refer that evidence to ICAC or the Commissioner of Police, who then may refer it to the Director of Public Prosecutions.

Protection against legal action
If you make a disclosure in accordance with the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994, you will not be subject to any liability and no action, claim or demand can be taken against you for making the disclosure. You will not have breached any confidentiality or secrecy obligations and you will have the defence of absolute privilege in defamation.

Support for those reporting wrongdoing
The City will make sure that staff who have reported wrongdoing, regardless of whether they have made a public interest disclosure, are provided with access to any professional support they may need.

Staff within Workforce Services will support those who report wrongdoing. They will initiate and coordinate support, particularly to those who are suffering any form of reprisal.

All managers/supervisors must notify the Disclosures Coordinator if they believe a staff member is suffering any detrimental action as a result of disclosing wrongdoing.

Sanctions for making false or misleading disclosures
It is important that all staff and Councillors are aware that it is a criminal offence under the Public Interest Disclosures Act 1994 to wilfully make a false or misleading statement when reporting wrongdoing. It may also be a breach of the City’s Code of Conduct and may result in disciplinary action. In the case of Councillors, such disciplinary action may be taken under the misconduct provisions of the Local Government Act 1993 and may include suspension or disqualification from civic office.

Support for the subject of a report
The City is committed to ensuring people who are the subject of a report of wrongdoing will be treated fairly. If you are the subject of a report, you will be:

- treated fairly and impartially;
- informed of your rights and obligations;
- kept informed during any investigation;
- given the opportunity to respond to any allegation made against you; and
- told the result of any investigation.

More information
More information about public interest disclosures is available on the City’s intranet. Advice and guidance is also available from the City’s Disclosures Coordinator and the NSW Ombudsman’s Public Interest Disclosures Unit.
Intended outcomes
This policy aims to ensure that the City meets its responsibilities in receiving, assessing and dealing with public interest disclosures in accordance with legislation and the City’s organisational values: Collaboration, Courage, Integrity, Innovation, Quality and Respect.

The City will:
- maintain an effective system of internal controls and compliance with those controls;
- establish formal procedures for the investigation of allegations of dishonest and/or fraudulent behaviour;
- react appropriately to situations where fraud or corruption allegations are proven to be true. This may be through reporting to relevant authorities and/or disciplinary action under the Code of Conduct;
- make all staff and Councillors aware of their obligations in combating fraudulent and corrupt behaviour by making available this policy and the Code of Conduct and providing appropriate training on a regular basis; and
- cultivate and maintain an environment in which dishonest and fraudulent behaviour is actively discouraged.

Evaluation
The owner of this policy will:
- regularly undertake fraud and corruption risk assessments to identify opportunities for fraud and implementing prevention and minimisation procedures in day to day operations;
- monitor the policy to ensure that it has fully achieved its intended purpose and outcomes;
- seek feedback from people who refer and use this policy to gauge its effect;
- regularly review the policy to ensure that it is complete, accurate and up-to-date.
